Summary of CV

This section describes briefly a summary of your career in science, academic and research; the main scientific and technological achievements and goals in your line of research in the medium -and long- term. It also includes other important aspects or peculiarities.

I am a historian whose work focuses on the study of the configuration of an Arab-Muslim society in al-Andalus during the Umayyad period (8th-11th c.). This complex process is reflected in the different types of existing sources of that time. The multidisciplinary training acquired thanks to my commitment to mobility has helped me develop skills to deal with all the sources for this place and period. To this end, I have attended leading academic institutions: B.A. in History from UPV/EHU and MSc in Archaeology from Autonomous University of Madrid, having also learnt Arabic at Complutense University of Madrid and Damascus University. Master's degree resulted in my being able to work with Digital Humanities tools (e.g. GIS). My master's thesis dealt with coin minting in al-Andalus in the 11th c. and was supervised by Dr. Alberto Canto. The thematic variety of my publications (Urban History, Cultural History, Numismatics and GIS) is a good example of the assimilation of the different disciplines.

I completed my training at CCHS-CSIC, where I carried out my PhD thesis under the supervision of Prof. Eduardo Manzano. I was also assisted by Prof. Jean-Pierre Van Staëvel at Sorbonne in developing the methodology of my research. The thesis analyses urban growth in south-eastern al-Andalus (cities were the first centres of Arabization and Islamization, besides being the centres of the Umayyad power) and its relationship with the articulation of a trans-Mediterranean trade. This socio-economic approach has received an excellent welcoming by the academic world. As a reflection of the above, I was awarded with the Extraordinary Doctoral Award 2019 from the UPV/EHU.

The CCHS has a great international projection, offering me the possibility of collaborating with European projects (PIMIC, CORPI) and establishing close contacts with many foreign researchers. By developing my research as a "frontier" analysis between different eras and disciplines, I have also been able to strengthen networking. An example of this is my post-doctoral stay at Universität Hamburg under the supervision of Prof. Sabine Panzram. Thanks to her expertise in Urban History of Iberia in Late Antiquity, I could deepen my understanding of the Visigothic institutions and their role after the Arab conquest. That could only be achieved through mutual exchange of knowledge.

I currently hold a post-doctoral position at the UPV/EHU (Juan de la Cierva-Formación fellowship), where I am studying the mutual influence of the forms of appropriation of rural space in the Christian peninsular northwest and in the border strip of al-Andalus. I also share with Prof. Francesca Tinti the interest in the role of languages in the construction of identities. So much so that I was, together with her, the supervisor of a master's thesis on this subject.

General quality indicators of scientific research

This section describes briefly the main quality indicators of scientific production (periods of research activity, experience in supervising doctoral theses, total citations, articles in journals of the first quartile, H index...). It also includes other important aspects or peculiarities.

My research outputs have appeared in several high-impact journals/publishers, and are highly cited in WOS and Scopus, especially considering that they have been recently published. One of my articles was published in "Al-Qantara", which is the reference journal in the History of al-Andalus and the Maghreb, and another in "Arqueología y Territorio Medieval", which is a specialist journal on the Archaeology of the Iberian Peninsula in the Early Middle Ages. I also published another article in the American journal "eHumanista", which has acquired a growing popularity in Andalusian Studies in recent years, with contributions from the most prestigious researchers in the discipline.

I have also written two monographs. One of them provides an overview of the main findings of my PhD thesis, which has been published by the "Editorial de la Universidad de Jaén". This publisher has a long tradition in Andalusian historiography, including among its most representative volumes works by Prof. Pedro Chalmeta, Prof. Miquel Barceló or Dr. Manuel Acién. As for the second monograph, this was co-authored by Prof. Eduardo Manzano and myself, with the former being one of the leading international experts on the history of al-Andalus. I am also the editor of a collective book including 17 chapters written by leading researchers in Andalusian studies. It will be published in 2021. I am also the author of two book chapters: the first one was published by Ediciones UAM, a publisher ranked highly in the SPI ranking; while the second one will be published throughout 2020 by Archaeopress (co-authored with Dr. Christopher Courault).

Furthermore, I have participated in conferences, workshops and seminars held at some highly renowned academic institutions, including foreign (University of Oxford, University of St Andrews, WarburgHaus, University of Göttingen, Saint Louis University, University of Hamburg, Denison University, Cervantes-Hamburg Institute) and Spanish ones (EEA-CSIC, Casa de Velázquez, ILC-CSIC, UAM, Casa Árabe, UCLM, University of Granada, IH-CSIC). This has been made possible thanks to the research grants I obtained from both international (Patty Foresman Fund, DAAD) and national institutions (Spanish Government, Basque Government, CSIC, UPV/EHU).

Since 2010, I have participated in 4 projects funded by the Spanish Ministry of Science. As three of them were the most relevant projects on the History of al-Andalus during the Umayyad period, I have been able to work together with the leading international specialists in my field (e.g., Dr. Patrice Cressier, Prof. Carmen Barceló). I am also a member of the research network on the Iberian Peninsula of the Ancient and the Umayyad periods called "Toletum". Participants include such prominent researchers, such as Prof. Maribel Fierro, Prof. Sonia Gutiérrez and Dr. Alejandro García Sanjuan, among others.

Another aspect worthy of note is that I have organised various scientific events, such as the "II Encuentros con Clío" at the IH-CSIC and the first two editions of the "Jornadas de Introducción al Mundo Árabo-Musulmán" at the UPV/EHU (I am preparing the third edition). I have taught several subjects at the UPV/EHU (B.A. in History) and I obtained the accreditation by the ANECA as Assistant Professor.

Primary (UNESCO code): 550403 - Mediaeval history

Performed tasks: The 2-years labour contract was framed within the postdoctoral fellowship from the University of the Basque Country called "Convocatoria de contratación para la Especialización de Personal Investigación Doctor en la UPV/EHU (2017)". The goal of this fellowship was to carry out of the research programme entitled "El triángulo Zaragoza - Tudela - Huesca en al-Andalus: dinámicas urbanas y su influencia en el mundo rural". I analysed the singularities of the urban evolution of the Northwest of the Ebro Valley under Muslim control (8th – 12th centuries), as well as its influence on the institutions and cities development from the neighbouring Christian kingdoms (Pamplona, Aragón and Castile). To that end, I jointly used both archaeological record and Arabic and Latin textual sources.

Teaching experience in courses and seminars for university teacher training

- 1 Type of event: Class-seminar given in the subject called "Historia de la Cultura Material y Arqueología en época medieval", which is an optional subject offered by the University of Granada (3rd and 4th course – B.A. in History)

Name of the event: "El desarrollo urbano de Madinat Ilbira dentro de la cora. Una aproximación desde las fuentes textuales y la Arqueología" class-seminar

City organizing entity: Granada, Andalusia, Spain

Organising entity: Professors of the subject: Full Professor Antonio Malpica and Dr. Guillermo García-Contreras

Aims of the course: Explanation of the origin and urban evolution of Madinat Ilbira, that is, the largest city of the province of Granada during the Umayyad period. As the lecture was framed within the subject of Archaeology, I highlighted the importance of interdisciplinarity (the use of archaeological and textual sources)

Target group profile: Students enrolled in the subject

Hours of teaching: 2 Teaching language: Spanish

Teaching date: 25/05/2017

Type of participation: Participatory - invited/keynote talk
- 2 Type of event: Class-seminar given in the following two subjects: "Beginning Arabic" and "Advanced Arabic". Both subjects were offered by Denison University (B.A. in Arabic Language)

Name of the event: "Andalusi Arabic" class-seminar

City organizing entity: Granville (Ohio), United States of America

Organising entity: Professor of the subject: Associate Professor Hanada Al-Masri Type of entity: Professor of the subject: Associate Professor Hanada Al-Masri

Aims of the course: Description of the main characteristics of Andalusian Arabic, that is, the variation of the Arabic Language spoken (and sometimes also written) by the population in the Iberian Peninsula. This variation was strongly influenced by the languages spoken by the main ethnic and social groups in al-Andalus: it was based on the peninsular Romance language, the adstratum was the Berber and as super-stratum the classical Arabic

Target group profile: Students enrolled in the subjects "Beginning Arabic" and "Advanced Arabic". I taught this class separately, that is, for the students of each subject, by adapting each class to their knowledge of Arabic

Hours of teaching: 4 Teaching language: English

Teaching date: 27/10/2015

Type of participation: Participatory - invited/keynote talk
- 3 Type of event: Lecture given in the subject called "Cultures of Spain" (B.A. in Spanish – Denison University)

Name of the event: "Religious identities and Arab-Islamic culture in al-Andalus (8th-10th centuries)" class-seminar

City organizing entity: Granville (Ohio), United States of America

Organising entity: Professor of the subject: Associate Professor Jason Busic

Type of entity: Professor of the subject: Associate Professor Jason Busic

Aims of the course: Exposure of causes and the way in which the Arab-Muslim culture expanded in the Iberian Peninsula during the Umayyad period. In al-Andalus, a culture was developed in which the whole society participated, including the Christian and Jewish inhabitants. These groups were strongly influenced by the Arab and Muslim cultural parameters, which were clearly the majority patrons in the Andalusian society

Target group profile: Students enrolled in the subject

Hours of teaching: 2

Teaching language: English

Teaching date: 26/10/2015

Type of participation: Participatory - invited/keynote talk

Applicant's contribution: The project has a marked interdisciplinary character, based on the use of archaeological and written sources to analyse the evolution of the settlement of the region of Jaén during the Umayyad period. In this way, the project examines the social changes that occurred during that period. My contribution is to investigate the settlement through Arabic textual sources, and I am carrying out the three following tasks: 1) To examine the first place in which the Arab military aristocracy settled down. 2) To study the process by which the capital of the region of Jaén changed over time. 3) To prepare maps with a GIS software by using georeferenced data.

Total amount: 24.200 €

Dedication regime: Part time

Applicant's contribution: The project analyses the articulation of European rural territory in the Early Middle Ages (8th -11th centuries) by focusing on the comparison of three regions: England, Middle Rhine Valley and the North of the Iberian Peninsula. My contribution is focused on this last territory, specifically in the north-western area of the Ebro Valley, which consisted of the border between the Muslim and Christian areas. There I investigate the establishment of the "qarya", that is, the minimum administrative and fiscal unit of the rural world of al-Andalus. Although the project is mostly made up of specialists in the use of written sources, my double training as a historian and archaeologist makes it possible for me to use Arabic and Latin text sources, as well as archaeological sources, in order to develop 3 tasks: 1) To locate and classify the place names of the Northwest of the Ebro Valley that derive from the word "qarya". 2) To compare the evolution of the "qarya"-s of that area with those of the south of al-Andalus. 3) To examine the influence of the "qarya" of the Ebro in the Christian agrarian space.

Dedication regime: Full time

Applicant's contribution: The project analysed the influence of the Fatimid caliphate in the creation and development of the Umayyad Caliphate. It was hinged around three core ideas: 1) The political and ideological dispute between both powers. 2) The Umayyad military expansion in the Maghreb against the Fatimids. 3) Diplomatic, intellectual, and economic relations between the Umayyad and Fatimid territories. Within the third block, I was responsible for researching exchanges through the Arabic textual sources. To that end, I carried out 3 tasks: 1) To determine the phases of relations between the two caliphates, pointing out products and expertise exchanged in each period. 2) To draw up the main maritime routes between al-Andalus and Tunisia-Egypt. 3) To study the urban growth of the peninsular East in relation to their contacts with the Fatimids.

Participating entity/entities: Consejo Superior de Investigaciones Científicas

Total amount: 65.000 €

Dedication regime: Full time

Applicant's contribution: The project dealt with the economic influence of the establishment of the Umayyad Caliphate throughout al-Andalus. It was composed of two blocks: 1) The capacity of the new capital, Madinat al-Zahra, to attract the products required by the Umayyads to consolidate his power from the Andalusian regions. 2) The products that the Umayyad official workshops standardised in Madinat al-Zahra, which had a wide distribution and acceptance within the elite of the different regions of Al-Andalus. My contribution consisted of studying, through textual and archaeological records, the Umayyad productions in the area of Ibbira (the current provinces of Granada and Almería). This territory was singular in the sense that it was specialised in the textile industry of silk, this being the most clear indication that the Caliphate carried out an own economic policy.

Funding entity: Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft (DFG)
City funding entity: Bonn, Germany
Goals of the stay: Guest
Provable tasks: Visiting researcher to develop the project “Governing beyond the Islamic world with an interface bridge. The relation of the Umayyad Caliphate of Cordoba with the Christian Kingdoms of Leon and Pamplona”
Identify key words: Latin language; Arabic language; Ancient history; Medieval history; History of Spain; Political history; Economic history
- 2 Entity: Universität Hamburg
City of entity: Hamburg, Hamburg, Germany
Primary (UNESCO code): 550403 - Mediaeval history
Secondary (UNESCO code): 550501 - Archaeology
Tertiary (UNESCO code): 550401 - Ancient history
Start-End date: 01/09/2017 - 28/02/2018 Duration: 6 months
Funding entity: German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD)
City funding entity: Bonn, Germany
Name of programme: Research Grants - Short-Term Grants (2017)

Goals of the stay: Post-doctoral

Provable tasks: I was awarded a fellowship (on a competitive basis) from DAAD in order to develop the research project entitled “From Iliberri to Ilbīra: urban decline and rural planning of the South-Eastern Iberian Peninsula between the Visigoths and the Umayyads”

Acquired skills developed: Prof. Sabine Panzram was the supervisor of my research project. She is specialist in the Urban History of the Iberian Peninsula in Late Antiquity. Thanks to that, I acquired deep knowledge of the Visigothic cities, which helped me analyse the reasons why there was a crisis in the 8th century, that is, at the end of the Visigothic kingdom and the beginning of the Arab rule.

Relevant results: I drafted the article "La colaboración entre las instituciones cristianas y el poder omeya desde la óptica de Eliberri y Urci", which has just been published in the american journal "eHumanista. Journal of Iberian Studies". I gave two seminars (in University of Göttingen and University of Hamburg) and took part in one workshop (in Warburg-Haus). I also carried out an intense work relied on networking with various German researchers. I strengthen my collaboration with Prof. Sabine Panzram and started a new one with Prof. Jens Scheiner (University of Göttingen) and Dr. Isabel Toral-Niehoff (Free University of Berlin).

- 3 Entity: Université Paris-Sorbonne (Paris IV) Type of entity: University
Faculty, institute or centre: UFR d'Histoire
City of entity: Paris, Île de France, France
Primary (UNESCO code): 550403 - Mediaeval history
Secondary (UNESCO code): 550501 - Archaeology
Tertiary (UNESCO code): 550601 - History of architecture
Start-End date: 16/05/2011 - 25/06/2011 Duration: 1 month - 11 days
Funding entity: Spanish National Research Council Type of entity: State agency
City funding entity: Madrid, Community of Madrid, Spain
Name of programme: "Ayudas complementarias para la realización de estancias breves en centros de I+D y empresas en España y en el extranjero (2011)". These mobility grants are earmarked for research student working at CSIC. Calls are provided on a competitive basis.
Goals of the stay: Pre-doctoral stay
Provable tasks: Paris is the main focus of international research on the medieval Islamic West. The university libraries, the library of the CNRS-IRHT and the National Library of France gather numerous works on al-Andalus. The possibility of having access to different historical sources and historiography series enabled objectives to be achieved which would have been impossible if the work had been carried out in Spain.
Acquired skills developed: Prof. Jean-Pierre Van Staëvel was my supervisor at Université Paris-Sorbonne (Paris IV). He is specialist in the urban history of al-Andalus, so having this kind of network was especially crucial in developing the methodology applied in my PhD thesis for studying the cities in Southeast al-Andalus.
Relevant results: I also attended many seminars in Paris, which helped me meet researchers working on al-Andalus and the Maghreb with whom I have been in contact since then.

- 4 Entity: Damascus University Type of entity: University
Faculty, institute or centre: Higher Language Institute
City of entity: Damascus, Syria

Start-End date: 02/08/2009 - 27/08/2009 Duration: 26 days
Funding entity: It was funded personally
Goals of the stay: Improvement of my Arabic knowledge
Provable tasks: The Department of Arabic Language Teaching offers monthly academic courses (80 hours) aimed at learning Arabic. Therefore, I went to Syria in order to complete an Arabic course (high-beginning level, that is, level III).
Acquired skills developed: I acquired the skill not only to read fluently but also to speak with native Arabic speakers.
Relevant results: I passed all course examinations and obtained an average mark of 74%.
